

Introduction

- The following materials represent the grade distribution, graduate and undergraduate, at Prairie View A&M University for Fall 2004. The institution does not use a “plus” or “minus” grading system but only whole letter grades. The materials are compiled by college, followed by the departments within that college, and the individual courses follow the departmental summary. Course levels can be identified by their leading numbers (e.g., 0 = below college level, 1 = freshman, 2 = sophomore ...7 = Ph.D.), and in cases where graduate and undergraduate grades are combined, such effects are noted.
- The findings and patterns found here emulate national grading trends. For example: Professional schools such as Business, Engineering, and Nursing grade “harder” (i.e., give fewer “A’s”) whereas Arts and Sciences, Education, etc. have a national pattern of more grades at the “A” and “B” levels than do professional schools. These data reflect that same pattern for Prairie View A&M University.
