An exhibition of
Photographs & Charcoal drawings
June 18 - July 31, 2008
Monday - Thursday 10:00 am - 4:00 pm
Friday 10:00 am - 12:00 Noon

This exhibition presents a variety of photographs and charcoal drawings celebrating Juneteenth and the emancipation of African American slaves in Texas. The photographs from the Library of Congress and The Austin Historic Center archives are used to tell a very compelling story. The exhibition provides a renewed understanding and an interpretation of the slave experience. The underlying theme of the exhibition is liberation. A companion 15 minute documentary which details the story of Juneteenth, is also available for public viewing.
