The SFLR Program aids African American landowners in creating sustainable intergenerational forest ownerships. This assistance is provided through eight, trusted local community-based organizations in eight southeastern states (AL, AR, GA, MS, NC, SC, TX & VA) and five national partners- The JPB Foundation, Mary Reynolds Babcock Foundation, U.S. Endowment for Forestry and Communities, the USDA Forest Service, the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS), and American Forest Foundation. This institution is an equal opportunity provider.
