Assignments: There will be a variety of graded and non-graded activities throughout the semester. Each activity will assess your command of the material as well as your understanding of the course goals and concepts. Activities are assigned and completed during the class period unless otherwise noted and cannot be turned in late or if classes are missed.

Thought Essays (Group Exercise) You and your group are responsible for writing three (3) criticism essays between 2 and 5 pages. We will discuss five methods in class and it is up to you to decide which methods you want to use for your essays. Once you decide the methods you want to use, choose an artifact and craft your essays. Your essays are due on the last day of the 2-week session devoted to the method you choose. Each group member is responsible for leading one essay. On the cover page of your essay, include all group member's names. The first author's name should be bold on the essay while other group members' names should be in regular font. The paper that you are responsible for will carry more weight than the others. Essays will be graded for both structure (grammar, spelling, organization, etc) and criticism (content). I expect you to take your writing seriously and work hard towards improving your abilities.

Oral Presentations (Group Exercise) On the last day of each session, groups who turned in papers will present their papers to the rest of the class. Each group member must present at least once, but s/he does not have to present alone. The group presentations can be presented in groups as long as all members have equal time speaking. The presentation that you are responsible for will also carry more weight.

Rhetorical Criticism (Individual Paper/Project) In this course there will be a large written project in which you will demonstrate your knowledge of rhetorical theory by performing a rhetorical criticism that involves applying a unit of analysis (theory/method) to some artifact/text or texts. This project is divided into the following sections (each section will be due on a different date). Our goal is to work through a process that will result in a polished final paper.

Descriptive Analysis/Proposal: (2-3 pages/double spaced/typed) In this initial writing assignment, you are to propose a text that you would like to closely "read." The proposal should include a) background information and description of the text, b) reasons why you are interested in this text, and c) an argument for why this text is significant for rhetorical analysis. Further details regarding format and expectations will be provided in class before the due date. (5 points)

Historical/Contextual Analysis: (4-6 pages/double spaced/typed) In this section you are to focus on the historical conditions surrounding your particular text. More specifically, you will trace the conditions that led to the emergence of your text and the past and current events/situations relating to the text. A works cited page of background information is required. Further details regarding format and expectations will be provided in class before the assignment is due. (10 points)

Theoretical/Methodological Critical Analysis: (3-4 pages or web/media project of equal length) In this section you will present your reading strategies. You will be expected to articulate what kind of theoretical lens you will use when you do your close reading of your text, why this theoretical position is useful, and what we might learn from this reading strategy. Further details regarding format and expectations will be provided in class before the due date (10 points)

Application and Conclusions/Implications Sections: (6-9 pages or web/media project of equal length). In the application section of your project, you will apply your method to your artifact(s) in order to conduct your rhetorical analysis. The conclusion/implication section should summarize the importance of your rhetorical criticism to both rhetorical theory and current practices. Further details regarding format and expectations will be provided in class before the due date (10 points)

Final Paper/Project (20-30 pages/double spaced/typed paper or web/media project of equal length) As a project either a paper, web based project or a short film, you will produce a final rhetorical analysis of an artifact. This section is a compilation of all the above sections: a) introduction and significance of your text, b) description of the context surrounding your text, c) description of your reading strategy/theoretical framework, and d) your rhetorical analysis of the artifact/text. Further details regarding format and expectations will be provided in class before the assignment is due. (15 points)

Final Presentation You will present your final papers to the class. Worth (5 points)

Seelio Reflection/Peer Feedback

Course Procedures or Additional Instructor Policies

Submission of Assignments: ALL ASSIGNMENTS must be typed and submitted via eCourses. No late work is accepted. Make sure that you are attentive to the due date AND time for assignments. You will not be allowed to submit late work on eCourses or in class.

Seelio ePortfolio

This course requires the use of Seelio to build an ePortfolio of work completed during your time at PVAMU. Each student will have an account and will spend time developing their professional online persona. Artifacts submitted to Seelio will included graded and nongraded works as well as works used to assess learning outcomes. Required Seelio assignments are clearly marked on the calendar.

Taskstream

Taskstream is a tool that Prairie View A&M University uses for assessment purposes. At least one of your assignments is REQUIRED to be submitted as an "artifact," an item of coursework that serves as evidence that course objectives are met. More information will be provided during the semester, but for general information, you can visit Taskstream via the link in eCourses.

Make-up and Late Work:

NO MAKE-UP OPTIONS ARE PROVIDED. NO LATE ASSIGNMENTS, SPEECHES, DISCUSSIONS OR EXAMS WILL BE ACCEPTED. I do not accept late WORK under any circumstance. This cannot be stressed enough. I will not accept late assignments, presentations, exams or activities under any circumstance. You are expected to come to each and every class on time and prepared. This is a dynamic participation based course. There is no way to recreate the atmosphere of an assignment, presentation or exam.

If an assignment is not turned in on time it will not be accepted. Each individual student is responsible to ensure that all assignments are completed and turned in on time. If a group member fails to complete and turn in an assignment on time EVERYONE in the group will receive a failing grade. It is your responsibility to turn work in by the due dates listed in this syllabus and on eCourses. For this reason I do not offer make-up assignments. Additionally, I will not be placed in the unfair position of evaluating the quality of your reason or excuse along side the quality of your work. I function in a reality that is governed by the maxim “failure to plan on your part does not constitute an emergency on mine.” You have everything you need to plan your life accordingly. If you have planned your life accordingly, then in the face of a true emergency you should be able to turn your assignment in via classmate, email, or carrier pigeon by the start of class on the day it is due. Emergencies do happen. I expect you to contact me if an emergency prevents you from attending class or completing a presentation, assignment or exam. If you do not contact me and let know what is going on I cannot help you. Finally, I will not accept late assignments, presentations or exams under any circumstance.

COURSE ASSIGNMENTS AND GRADING:

Your grade in this course is based on the completion of the course assignments including all readings, notes, presentations, papers, exams and class participation. You are expected to and your grade will reflect your adherence to course guidelines and expectations. Full-length assignment discussions are included with this document after the discussion of University Rules and Procedures.

Grade Concerns: I am happy to discuss your work and performance with you. Keep in mind that I will protect your privacy in discussing your work. This means not discussing your grade in the presence of other students, faculty or staff before, during or after class sessions and or office hours. If others are present at the time that you attempt to engage in a conversation about your grades I will ask them to leave or instruct you to wait until such time as your privacy can be maintained.

In general, I require a 24-hour reflection period before discussing grading concerns. After the reflection period has passed, you may submit your concerns in writing. Make sure that in your email you include:

- (a) Your name, the title of the course and meeting time
- (b) The name of the assignment
- (c) A clear discussion of your issues or concerns
- (d) Your suggestion(s) for resolving the issue(s).
- (e) Make sure that you use correct spelling and grammar in your email. (I do not respond to messages I do not understand.)

I will respond in writing to your concern(s) within 48 hours of receiving them unless the email is sent over the weekend or holiday break. If you continue to have questions after you have received and read my written response(s) to your concern(s), we will find a suitable time to meet and discuss your concern(s). USE ONLY your pvamu.edu email accounts to discuss grade concerns. I will not respond to emails sent via a non PVAMU email account as there is no way to secure your receipt of my response or the authenticity of the user.

FOR ALL STUDENTS, all of your work including your final paper must be turned in to your professor on or before Thursday, November 30, 2017 at 5:00 pm in order to receive full consideration for this course.

REMEMBER NO LATE WORK IS ACCEPTED FOR THIS COURSE

Extra Credit: None. No extra credit is provided. If you make sure to complete and submit all assignments, exams, presentations and papers on time and do your best work no extra work is needed.

CLASSROOM POLICIES AND COURSE PROCEDURES

The following sections outline specific policies and procedures that govern this class. If you remain in this class after the second-class meeting you signal your agreement with the policies and procedures governing this course to the professor and the university. If you have questions about the policies and procedures please ask me. I am always happy to discuss the class with you. Your professor will not drop you from this course. If at anytime you decide not to continue in this course, you are responsible to drop this course with the Office of the Registrar.

Class is conducted through face-to-face, virtual lecture, discussion, and small group workshop. Class involvement and participation is an essential aspect of the course. A percentage of the final grade is based on your participation.

The remainder of your grade is determined based on your performance on exams, written and oral assignments. Students are expected to come to class on time for every class meeting. I expect all students registered for this class to be prepared for every class. This means having all needed documents, books, writing instruments, completing all reading and other materials assigned in the syllabus prior to the date indicated on the course calendar. Students are also expected to provide appropriate feedback about their classmates' preparation, participation and presentations according to criteria set forth by the professor.

Attendance: Regular attendance is crucial to your success in this class. You are expected to come to class having completed all assignments, prepared for all readings, discussions and presentations. Please be on time and prepared on your assigned presentation day as well as your day to be an active audience member. If you decide not to come to class, you will be held responsible for all information and/or in-class activities whether you are there or not. You will not be permitted to make up any assignments completed in a class for which you are absent. If you are absent, have one of your classmates bring you up to speed. Please don't ask me if we did anything important, or if you missed anything; assume that it was and you did. Attendance is a substantial part of your participation grade. I make no value judgments about WHY you are absent from class. When you are absent, it is counted against you.

Participation: I invite you to participate in class. Participation can take many forms. In my view, it involves coming to every class, staying through the entire class, not disrupting the class from its' business (i.e. going to the bathroom during class time, failing to turn off cell phones, sending text messages, instant messages, reading newspapers, gossiping, etc.). It includes being prepared to discuss the day's topic, stimulating the class's thinking by bringing in real life examples or thoughts you have about the readings, etc. These are the types of behaviors that I expect from you in this class. Be assured that I will do my part by offering ideas, videos, readings, and exercises that I hope will spark your intellectual curiosity.

Reading: It is mandatory that you have the required reading(s)/textbook(s) for this course. I expect every student to own a copy of the required text(s) for this course no later than the end of the first week of instruction. There will be days when you must bring your text(s) to class with you. I expect every student to have read the assigned material from the text(s) before coming to class. I encourage you to take notes as you read so that you can ask informed questions during class. This is your education. Take it seriously and read the material. You will be held responsible for the material in the textbook(s) as well as for information discussed in class on exams, assignments, and during presentations. Your final grade will reflect, in part, your commitment to reading and understanding the material.

Writing and Research: Unless otherwise noted, any written assignment must be typed, double-spaced, 12 point font, standard 1 inch margins, in Chicago Style format. If you do not have a copy of The Chicago Manual of Style 16th edition or Turabian's A Manual for Writers of Research Papers, Theses, and Dissertations I encourage you to purchase one. Do not lose points needlessly because you don't know what the manual requires. You will be held accountable for the rules of citation, reference, title and page format, spelling and grammar whether you know them or not.

Citation: All sources used to complete assignments, exams, speeches, presentations or other work completed for this course should follow the Turabian's A Manual for Writers of Research Papers, Theses, and Dissertations 7th edition unless otherwise noted in writing by your professor. ALL SOURCES MUST BE ACKNOWLEDGED!!! The penalty for plagiarism is severe and may result in expulsion from the university.

Exam Policy

Exams should be taken as scheduled. No makeup examinations will be allowed except under documented emergencies (See Student Handbook). If you cannot document your emergency under the university guidelines, you will not be allowed to make-up the exam.

Classroom Etiquette: In order to make each class session is as productive as possible it is important that we follow:

Lecture and Discussion Days

- When a lecture is in session please wait until you are given a signal before entering class.
- Never walk in front of or behind a speaker when he/she is talking, as this is very distracting to the speaker and the audience.
- Please refrain from whispering or carrying on conversations with other class members when lectures and or discussions are in progress. This behavior is very disruptive.
- Take care of bathroom breaks before or after class. Unless you are ill, you should not walk in and out of class when a lecture is in progress.
- Please refrain from reading materials or doing homework unrelated to class during our sessions.
- Turn off cell phones and pagers when in class.
- Refrain from sending and receiving e-mail, text messages, instant messages or other forms computer mediated communication during class. This is highly disruptive and disrespectful.

Ladies do not come to class wearing revealing outfits i.e. extremely short shirts, skirts or shorts. If you do not know the difference between club attire and classroom attire please ask me. You have paid to attend college. Make that your focus while in this class.

Presentation and Speech Days

- Do not enter the classroom during student speeches. Wait until you hear applause then enter.
- On speech days you are required to wear business casual dress. This demonstrates a level of preparedness and professionalism.

Student Responsibility: As the student it is your responsibility to keep track of what is discussed and assigned in this course and on the syllabus as well as additional information announced in class and via on-line resources such as eCourses. Your professor will not rely totally on material from the textbook. Students are responsible for any additional material covered in class meetings or assigned as homework. This includes but is not limited to books, journal articles, films, television series, and other cultural artifacts. You are also responsible for your grades and course information. If you have questions do not sit in silence. Ask me. If you do not want to ask during class you can come to office hours or email me. I am here to facilitate your learning.

Formatting Documents: Microsoft Word is the standard word processing tool used at PVAMU. If you're using other word processors, be sure to use the "save as" tool and save the document in either the Microsoft Word, Rich-Text, or plain text format. Assignments saved in other formats will not be graded and will be returned to students to correct formatting, a zero (0) will be recorded for the assignment until the student corrects the format issue(s) and returns the assignment. Students taking longer than 24 hours to return assignments will lose 10% per day until the assignment is returned to the professor in the correct format.

University Rules and Procedures

Disability Statement (Also See Student Handbook):

The Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) is a federal anti-discrimination statute that provides comprehensive civil rights protection for persons with disabilities. Among other things, this legislation requires that all students with disabilities be guaranteed a learning environment that provides for reasonable accommodation of their disabilities. If you believe you have a disability requiring an accommodation, please contact Disability Services, in Evans Hall, Room 317, or call 936-261-3585/3.

Academic Misconduct (See Student Handbook):

You are expected to practice academic honesty in every aspect of this course and all other courses. Make sure you are familiar with your Student Handbook, especially the section on academic misconduct. Students who engage in academic misconduct are subject to university disciplinary procedures.

Forms of Academic Dishonesty:

1. Cheating: deception in which a student misrepresents that he/she has mastered information on an academic exercise that he/she has not mastered; giving or receiving aid unauthorized by the instructor on assignments or examinations.
2. Academic misconduct: tampering with grades or taking part in obtaining or distributing any part of a scheduled test.
3. Fabrication: use of invented information or falsified research.

4. Plagiarism: unacknowledged quotation and/or paraphrase of someone else's words, ideas, or data as one's own in work submitted for credit. Failure to identify information or essays from the Internet and submitting them as one's own work also constitutes plagiarism.

Nonacademic Misconduct (See Student Handbook)

The university respects the rights of instructors to teach and students to learn. Maintenance of these rights requires campus conditions that do not impede their exercise. Campus behavior that interferes with either (1) the instructor's ability to conduct the class, (2) the inability of other students to profit from the instructional program, or (3) campus behavior that interferes with the rights of others will not be tolerated. An individual engaging in such disruptive behavior may be subject to disciplinary action. Such incidents will be adjudicated by the Dean of Students under nonacademic procedures.

Sexual Misconduct (See Student Handbook):

Sexual harassment of students and employers at Prairie View A&M University is unacceptable and will not be tolerated. Any member of the university community violating this policy will be subject to disciplinary action.

Title IX Statement

Prairie View A&M University (PVAMU) is committed to supporting students and complying with the Texas A&M University System non-discrimination policy. It seeks to establish an environment that is free of bias, discrimination, and harassment. If you experience an incident of sex- or gender-based discrimination, including sexual harassment, sexual assault or attempted sexual assault, we encourage you to report it. While you may talk to a faculty member about an incident of misconduct, the faculty member must report the basic facts of your experience to Ms. Alexia Taylor, PVAMU's Title IX Coordinator. If you would like to speak with someone who may be able to afford you privacy or confidentiality, there are individuals who can meet with you. The Title IX Coordinator is designated to handle inquiries regarding non-discrimination policies and can assist you with understanding your options and connect you with on- and off-campus resources. The Title IX Coordinator can be reached by phone at 936-261-2123 or in Suite 013 in the A.I. Thomas Administration Building.

Class Attendance Policy (See Catalog for Full Attendance Policy)

Prairie View A&M University requires regular class attendance. Attending all classes supports full academic development of each learner whether classes are taught with the instructor physically present or via distance learning technologies such as interactive video and/or internet.

Excessive absenteeism, whether excused or unexcused, may result in a student's course grade being reduced or in assignment of a grade of "F". Absences are accumulated beginning with the first day of class during regular semesters and summer terms. Each faculty member will include the University's attendance policy in each course syllabus.

Student Academic Appeals Process

Authority and responsibility for assigning grades to students rests with the faculty. However, in those instances where students believe that miscommunication, errors, or unfairness of any kind may have adversely affected the instructor's assessment of their academic performance, the student has a right to appeal by the procedure listed in the Undergraduate Catalog and by doing so within thirty days of receiving the grade or experiencing any other problematic academic event that prompted the complaint.

Technical Support:

Students should go to <https://mypassword.pvamu.edu/> if they have password issues. The page will provide instructions for resetting passwords and contact information if login issues persist. For other technical questions regarding eCourses, call the Office of Distance Learning at 936-261-3283

Communication Expectations and Standards:

Emails or discussion postings will receive a response from the instructor, usually in less than 48 hours. Urgent emails should be marked as such. Check regularly for responses.

Discussion Requirement:

Online courses often require minimal to no face-to-face meetings. However, conversations about the readings, lectures, materials, and other aspects of the course can take place in a seminar fashion. This will be accomplished by the use of the discussion board. The exact use of discussion will be determined by the instructor.

It is strongly suggested that students type their discussion postings in a word processing application and save it to their PC or a removable drive before posting to the discussion board. This is important for two reasons: 1) If for some reason your discussion responses are lost in your online course, you will have another copy; 2) Grammatical errors can be greatly minimized by the use of the spell-and-grammar check functions in word processing applications. Once the post(s) have been typed and corrected in the word processing application, it/they should be copied and pasted to the discussion board.
