Office Hours:	M/W/F 11:10-12:10, Th. 8am (on Zoom), and by appointment
Catalog Description: (from PV Catalogue)	“Combines the philosophical study of normative ethics with the study of contemporary applied ethics through examination of a number of tendencies and schools of ethics from various cultures, societies and historical periods. The aim of the course is to enhance the student’s awareness and sensitivity to the perplexity of morality and the moral life.”
Course Agenda:	We’ll start this course by examining foundational concepts (including valid and sound arguments, and relativism and hedonism) and three of the most influential moral theories in history, called Virtue Ethics, Utilitarianism, and Deontology. We’ll spend the rest of the semester using these concepts and theories to resolve various moral and social dilemmas. (For example, we’ll consider how we should view: non-traditional marriages and sexual relations, abortion, drugs, freedom of speech, racial profiling, euthanasia, punishment and the death penalty, etc.) We’ll also learn various critical thinking skills (using “argument outlines”), to help us distinguish stronger from weaker moral views and arguments.
Prerequisites:	Prerequisite: ENGL 1123 No co-requisites
Required Text:	Articles from the Stanford Encyclopedia of Philosophy , and Internet Encyclopedia of Philosophy (both online; these will take the place of a class textbook).

Student Learning Outcomes:

Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to:	Program Learning Outcome Alignment	Core Curriculum Outcome Alignment

Grading Criteria and Conversion:

A = 100 – 90pts; B = 89 – 80pts; C = 79 – 70pts; D = 69 – 60pts; F = 59 pts or below

PV Policy: “If a student has stopped attending the course (i.e. “stopped out”) at any point after the first day of class but did not officially withdraw from the course and has missed assignments and exams, including the final exam, and performed below the grade level of a D, a grade of FN (failed non-attendance) will be assigned for the final course grade to ensure compliance with the federal Title IV financial aid regulations. In contrast, if the student has completed all assignments and exams, including the final exam, but performed below the grade level of a D, a grade of F will be assigned for the final course grade.”

DESCRIPTION of COURSE GRADE REQUIREMENTS:

1. Copies of Articles: You may earn 5% of your grade by showing me your own copies of the assigned web articles, by the beginning of each week that we cover the various topics. To get credit and show me they’re your own, you must initial the top of the first few pages.

2. You will write and submit three Argument Outlines in Canvas Assignments. Writing these will give you practice at learning how to construct and evaluate arguments. But you must do your own individual work on these—without collaborating with others. (Copying or writing these with other students may lower your grade and earn you an “F.”) Here are the topics (or Conclusions) for your Outlines:

DEBATE/OUTLINE #1 (Conclusion A): Therefore, same-sex marriages are not objectively wrong, and should be legal!

– or – (Conclusion B): Therefore, same-sex marriages are objectively wrong, and should be illegal!

DEBATE/OUTLINE #2 (Conclusion A): Therefore, Texas Governor Abbott’s Operation Lone Star is a good program, and should be enforced!

– or – (Conclusion B): Therefore, no, Operation Lone Star is a bad program, and should be stopped!

DEBATE/OUTLINE #3: (Conclusion A): Therefore, the death penalty isn’t wrong, and should be legal!

– or – (Conclusion B): Therefore, the death penalty is wrong, and should be illegal!

You will submit your Outlines for these on Canvas, by the dates listed on our Semester Calendar. It will be your choice whether you write and defend Conclusion A or B for each one. Each of your Outlines will consist of at least six Points/Premises (numbered P1, P2, . . . P6. . .), written at the top of your page, and ending with the Conclusion written at the bottom of your page. So I gave you the Conclusions (above) that you’ll have to end up with (you’ll simply cut-and-paste A or B for each one, onto the bottom of your Outline); but you will supply all the Premises.

Here is how grading for these will work: i) each Premise should be one declarative sentence long—not presented as a mere phrase or question or set of sentences; ii) every Premise should be relevant to, and supportive of, the Conclusion. (So if some premise or sentence or thought is irrelevant or unrelated to C, then you should not include it in your Outline!); iii) each Premise should be clear and free of spelling and grammatical errors; iv) the overall flow and structure of your Outline should be clear; v) you should use or integrate information in your Premises from at least 2 outside sources, beyond our class articles; and vi) you should provide full citations for all your sources at the end of your Outline (after the Conclusion). So an “A-quality Outline” will fulfill all six of these criteria; fulfilling most of these criteria will earn a B; a C will fulfill some of these; and a D or F will fulfill few if any of these. (Btw, I will offer you examples of such Outlines periodically in class.)

3. For the Debate, students will defend (or critique) one of the above topics (not all three). They’ll do this in an oral debate in front of class, explaining, and defending or attacking, the topic and its distinctive strengths and weaknesses. (Students who strongly prefer not to debate may write a 5-page Paper instead.)

In these Debates, you’ll be expected to provide helpful information and arguments that support your Conclusion—either A or B. Although this will be done in front of class with fellow team members, each student will be graded individually for his/her own contribution and performance. To be ready for these Debates will require real preparation: on an informational level, this will mean explaining to the class any relevant facts, historical developments, laws or court cases, etc.. And on a critical thinking level, this will mean clarifying and arguing why your Conclusion is stronger or more reasonable than your opponent’s.

Grading for your Debate will work as follows: students who come well prepared—with clear and convincing arguments, a good grasp of the issues, use of our textbook and outside sources, and stimulation of class discussion—will get an A. Students who come generally prepared, who participate a little and show some familiarity with the issues and relevant textbook readings, will get a B or C.

Students who come ill prepared, who say nothing or seem to make up stuff on the spot, will get a D. And students who don't show when scheduled up will get an F and no credit—0 out of the 8 points.

4-5. I will give two Regular Exams (#1 and #3): Exam #1 will cover all the material up to 2/22, and Exam #3 will cover the material from 3/12 to 4/11. The Midterm will cover everything up to 3/7, and the Final will cover all the material after 3/7. These Exams will have 26-35 multiple choice questions. Students who take an Exam late may have to take a short answer/essay version of the Exam as make-up.

6. Good Attendance (with no more than 2 unexcused absences) and Discussion (with relevant comments, helpful questions, etc.) are also important parts of the class and will help you earn a relatively higher grade. So students will get all five points for this part of the course only if they have excellent attendance, make positive contributions during class, and aren't disruptive in any way (e.g., by talking or whispering, leaving early or entering late, etc. See the Course Procedures below.) And students who are disruptive or have bad attendance will forfeit any bonus points or opportunities for extra credit I give out.

7. Assessment Assignment – this is meant to fulfill an assignment PV has required, for all core classes like ours. This must be submitted in the Canvas Assignments tab by or before 4/25; see page 10 (“Philosophy Assessment THECB Assignment”) for details about this.

8. I may not give any Curve Points (as on Exams) or Extra Credit opportunities this semester. But if I do, they will NOT be given to: a) students who have not shown or sent me copies of the assigned articles on time (see #1 above), or b) students who violate any of our Course Procedures/Class Policies below.

COURSE PROCEDURES/CLASS POLICIES:

Most of these apply to our in-person classes, although some apply to any Zoom sessions we have. Students who want to learn should be able to do so in an environment that makes learning easy and interesting and that supports mutual respect. In order to maintain this positive environment, these policies should be followed:

- 1. Late Policy: Students may not be allowed into class after the first ten minutes (or less, if lateness remains a problem), unless they have a valid written excuse. And students who come late more than three times may not be allowed into class at all. (See #2 about excuses for chronic lateness or absence.)
- 2. Chronic lateness and absences will be considered unexcused, unless students give me written, verifiable notes explaining why, with phone numbers or evidence for verification. (Please don't send me emails merely saying that you're missing class, without verification: merely saying this won't suffice to excuse you for the absence.)
- 3. These behaviors, in particular, may cause students to lose points on Exams: frequently coming in late; leaving class early without letting me know before class starts; making noise, whispering or talking to neighbors during class; etc. Depending on the frequency or severity of the disruption, students may lose up to five points from Exam grades—for each disruption.
- 4. Cheating by forging other's names on the Attendance Sheet (or letting others do this) may result in an “F” for the course (per the PVAMU Rules and Procedures on Academic Dishonesty; see page 6 below).
- 5. Copying work from other students' Argument Outlines, copying answers from neighbors in-person Exams (with many identical wrong answers), or using notes, cheat-sheets, or cell phones on Exams may earn a student an “F” for the class, or even get them expelled from PV. (See PV's policy on this on p. 6.)
- 6. Cell Phone Policy: I strongly encourage students not to have cell phones out in class. Doing so may distract students and set a bad example (of not paying attention or taking the class seriously). I won't simply prohibit their use in class; but if students have them out regularly, they may not receive any curve points or extra credit opportunities that I give out.
- 7. And although I won't assign seats or require this, please try to sit in the same seat all semester (because, among other things, this will help me learn your names more quickly, if I do a seating chart).

Students who violate these policies (1-6) won't be entitled to any curve points or extra credit opportunities I may give out.

(Peace. I Timothy 1:9 - "the law isn't made for the righteous but for lawbreakers and rebels." ☺)

UNIVERSITY RULES and PROCEDURES (copied from the PV Catalogue):

Academic Misconduct (See Student Planner)

You are expected to practice academic honesty in every aspect of this course and all other courses. Make sure you are familiar with your Student Planner, especially the section on academic misconduct (see University Administrative Guidelines on Academic Integrity). Students who engage in academic misconduct are subject to university disciplinary procedures. As listed in the PVAMU Undergraduate Catalog, Graduate Catalog, and the Student Planner, the following are examples of prohibited conduct. This list is not designed to be all-inclusive or exhaustive. In addition to academic sanctions, any student found to have committed or to have attempted to commit the following academic misconduct may also be subject to disciplinary review and action as outlined in the PVAMU Student Planner.

Forms of Academic Dishonesty:

1. Cheating: Deception in which a student misrepresents that he/she has mastered information on an academic exercise that he/she has not learned, giving or receiving aid unauthorized by the instructor on assignments or examinations. Examples: unauthorized use of notes for a test; using a "cheat sheet" on a quiz or exam; any alteration made on a graded test or exam which is then resubmitted to the teacher.
2. Plagiarism: Careless or deliberate use of the work or the ideas of another; representation of another's work, words, ideas, or data as your own without permission or appropriate acknowledgment. Examples: copying another's paper or answers, failure to identify information or essays from the Internet and submitting or representing it as your own; submitting an assignment which has been partially or wholly done by another and claiming it as yours; not properly acknowledging a source which has been summarized or paraphrased in your work; failure to acknowledge the use of another's words with quotation marks. Plagiarism is a serious academic crime, and our Program has a strict, rigorous enforcement policy for students who commit plagiarism. In general, plagiarism is using another person's or artificially generated program's words, statistics, and/or ideas as if they were your own. Plagiarism, which is formally defined in the University Rules and Procedures section of this syllabus, can come in many forms, such as directly quoting a source without quotation marks, taking another student's work, directly quoting a source without giving a reference citation, paraphrasing a source without giving a reference citation and so forth. It is incumbent on students to seek help from the instructor or other University resources to avoid even the appearance of plagiarism in their work. If in doubt, CITE THE SOURCE! Any student caught committing ANY type of plagiarism in a Political Science course will receive one OR MORE of the following punishments, depending on the severity of the offense and in accordance with the Student Code of Conduct:

- a. Grade Penalty (an F for the assignment or for the course) in addition to cancellation of any extra credit points
- b. Letter of Reprimand
- c. Probation
- d. Suspension
- e. Dismissal from Academic Program
- f. Expulsion from the University.

Students must consult the University's Code of Conduct for other forms of academic dishonesty and punishments.

PV's General Statement on the Use of Generative Artificial Intelligence Tools in the Classroom: Generative Artificial Intelligence (GAI), specifically foundational models that can create writing, computer code, and/or images using minimal human prompting, are increasingly becoming pervasive. Even though ChatGPT is one of the most well-known GAI's currently available, this statement includes any and all past, current, and future generations of GAI software. PVAMU expects that all work produced for a grade in any course, be it face-to-face or virtual, will be the sole product of a student's endeavors to meet those academic goals. However, should an instructor permit their students to use artificial intelligence as a resource or tool, students must not substitute the substance of their original work with the results of using such GAI tools. This clearly violates the University's Administrative Guidelines on Academic Integrity and its underlying academic values.

3. Multiple Submission: Submission of work from one course to satisfy a requirement in another course without explicit permission. Example: using a paper prepared and graded for credit in one course to fulfill a requirement and receive credit in a different course.
4. Conspiracy: Agreeing with one or more persons to commit an act of academic/scholastic dishonesty.
5. Fabrication of Information/Forgery: Use or submission of contrived, invented, forged, or altered information in any assignment, laboratory exercise, or test; tampering with or production of a counterfeit document, particularly documents which make up the student's academic record. Examples: making up a source or citing nonexistent publication or article; representing made up data as real for an experiment in a science laboratory class; forging a change of grade or student withdrawal record; falsifying any document related to a student academic exercise.

Nonacademic Misconduct (See Student Planner)

The University respects the rights of instructors to teach and students to learn. Maintenance of these rights requires campus conditions that do not impede their exercise. Campus behavior that interferes with either (1) the instructor's ability to conduct the class, or (2) the ability of students to benefit from the instructional program, or (3) the rights of others will not be tolerated. An individual engaging in such disruptive behavior may be subject to disciplinary action. Such incidents will be adjudicated by the Office for Student Conduct under nonacademic procedures.

Sexual Misconduct

Sexual harassment of students and employees at Prairie View A&M University is unacceptable and will not be tolerated. Any member of the university community violating the university's sexual harassment policy will be subject to disciplinary action. In accordance with the Texas A&M University System guidelines, your instructor is obligated to report to the Office of Title IX Compliance (titleixteam@pvamu.edu) any instance of sexual misconduct involving a student, which includes sexual assault, stalking, dating violence, domestic violence, and sexual harassment, about which the instructor becomes aware during this course through writing, discussion, or personal disclosure. The faculty and staff of PVAMU actively strive to provide a learning, working, and living environment that promotes respect that is free from sexual misconduct, discrimination, and all forms of violence. If students, faculty, or staff would like assistance, or have questions, they may contact the Title IX Coordinator at 936-261-2144 or titleixteam@pvamu.edu. More information can be found at the Title IX Webpage including confidential resources available on campus.

Pregnancy, Pregnancy-related, and Parenting Accommodations

Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 prohibits sex discrimination, which includes discrimination based on pregnancy, marital status, or parental status. Students seeking accommodations related to pregnancy, pregnancy-related condition, or parenting (reasonably immediate postpartum period) are encouraged to contact Student Disability Services or the Dean of Students' Office for additional information and to request accommodations. More information can be found at this webpage.

Non-Discrimination Statement

Prairie View A&M University does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, sex, religion, national origin, age, disability, genetic information, veteran status, sexual orientation or gender identity in its programs and activities. The University is committed to supporting students and complying with the Texas A&M University System non-discrimination policy. It seeks to establish an environment that is free of bias, discrimination, and harassment. If you experience an incident of discrimination or harassment, we encourage you to report it. If you would like to speak with someone who may be able to afford you privacy or confidentiality, there are individuals who can meet with you. The Director of Equal Opportunity & Diversity has been designated to handle inquiries regarding the non-discrimination policies, and can be reached at Harrington Science Building, Suite 109 or by phone 936-261-1744 or 1792.

Class Attendance Policy (See Catalog for Full Attendance Policy)

Prairie View A&M University requires regular class attendance. Attending all classes supports full academic development of each learner whether classes are taught with the instructor physically present or via distance learning technologies such as interactive video and/or internet. Excessive absenteeism, whether excused or unexcused, may result in a student's course grade being reduced or in assignment of a grade of "F". Absences are accumulated beginning with the first day of class during regular semesters and summer terms. Each faculty member will include the University's attendance policy in each course syllabus.

Student Academic Appeals Process

Authority and responsibility for assigning grades to students rests with the faculty. However, in those instances where students believe that miscommunication, errors, or unfairness of any kind may have adversely affected the instructor's assessment of their academic performance, the student has a right to appeal by the procedure listed in the University Catalog and by doing so within thirty days of receiving the grade or experiencing any other problematic academic event that prompted the complaint. Students can file Academic Complaints and/or Grade Appeals at this webpage.

When using Zoom, WebEx or other video conferencing tools, confirm the visible area is tidy, clear of background clutter, inappropriate or offensive posters, and other distractions. Ensure you dress appropriately and avoid using high traffic or noisy areas. Stay muted when you are not speaking and avoid eating/drinking during session. Before class session begins, test audio, video and lighting to alleviate technology issues.

Technical Support

Students should go to the Password Reset Tool if they have password issues. The page will provide instructions for resetting passwords and contact information if login issues persist. Communication Expectations and Standards

Emails or discussion postings will receive a response from the instructor, usually in less than 48 hours. Urgent emails should be marked as such. Check regularly for responses.

Discussion Requirement

Online courses often require minimal to no face-to-face meetings. However, conversations about the readings, lectures, materials, and other aspects of the course can take place in a seminar fashion. This will be accomplished by the use of the discussion board. The exact use of discussion will be determined by the instructor.

It is strongly suggested that students type their discussion postings in a word processing application such as Word and save it to their PC or a removable drive before posting to the discussion board. This is important for two reasons: 1) If for some reason your discussion responses are lost in your online course, you will have another copy; 2) Grammatical errors can be greatly minimized by the use of the spell-and-grammar check functions in word processing applications. Once the post(s) have been typed and corrected in the word processing application, copy and paste to the discussion board.

COVID-19 Campus Safety Measures

To promote public safety and protect students, faculty, and staff during the coronavirus pandemic, PVAMU has adopted policies and practices to limit virus transmission.

- Self-reporting – Students who test positive for COVID-19 are required to report their positive test results within 48 hours using the PVAMU Self-Reporting Form. Proof of off-campus and self-administered home test results must be sent to covid-19@pvamu.edu. Proof for self-administered home test is a picture of the test with a photo ID in the same photo.
- Self-monitoring – Students should follow public health guidance to help slow the spread of the virus, including being vaccinated. Students who have a fever or exhibit symptoms of COVID-19 should not participate in face-to-face instruction.
- Face Coverings – Face coverings (KN-95, surgical mask, etc.) are highly recommended in classrooms, teaching laboratories, common spaces such as lobbies and hallways, public study spaces, libraries, academic resource and support offices, and outdoor spaces where 6 feet of physical distancing is challenging to maintain reliably.
- Physical Distancing – Physical distancing should be maintained between students, instructors, and others in course and course-related activities where possible.
- Personal Illness and Quarantine – Students required to quarantine are to participate in courses and course-related activities remotely and must not attend face-to-face course activities. Communication with the student's instructor for remote support will take place by the Office of the Assistant Vice President for Academic Engagement and Success. Students under quarantine are expected to participate in courses and complete graded work unless they have symptoms that are too severe to participate in course activities. Students experiencing personal injury or illness that is too severe for the student to attend class may qualify for an excused absence. To receive an excused absence, students must provide appropriate documentation to the Office for Student Conduct, studentconduct@pvamu.edu.

Questions – For answers regarding COVID-19 policies and/or procedures, students should refer to www.pvamu.edu/coronavirus or email covid-19@pvamu.edu.

Philosophy Assessment THECB Assignment for Core Courses

Purpose of Assignment:

This assignment is designed to satisfy the Language, Philosophy, and Culture Section of the core undergraduate curriculum requirement, as specified by the THECB. Courses appropriate to this Assignment are ones that: 1) focus on ideas, values, beliefs, and other aspects of culture that affect human experience; 2) involve the exploration of ideas that foster aesthetic and intellectual creation in order to understand the human condition across cultures; and 3) address critical thinking skills, communication skills, personal responsibility, and social responsibility.

Brief Description of Assignment:

Student participants will write a response according to the Instructions given below. This Assignment must follow an official Writing and Citation Style (MLA, APA, or Chicago Style) and, if students wish to add these, other works used, with references/footnotes cited in parentheses. What students write should be about 1 page long (a little longer, but not shorter, will be OK, and will be double-spaced with 12-point font).

Instructions:

Read the New York Times article, “We Need a New Language for Talking about Race” by Henry Louis Gates Jr. and Andrew S. Curran¹ (the link/web-address for this is provided at the bottom). Then, write a 1-page paper that does the two things mentioned below, especially with this quoted assertion in mind: In their third paragraph, Gates and Curran assert that to “push back against a very long and sad history of the misuse of science for pernicious purposes,” we need a better understanding of how race (“a toxic social construction”) and ancestry (“a shared genetic history”) are “distinct [and] fundamentally opposed. . . .” So you need to re-construct their argument, and also explain why you agree or disagree with their assertion. (Do you agree with it? If so, why? If you do not agree with the assertion, why not?) In other words, your 1-page paper should do two things; it should:

- briefly but accurately reiterate Gates and Curran’s argument and assertion here, and
 - clearly express your own response to (reasons why you agree or disagree with) them.
- And this should be all your own work and words, not done in collaboration with other students. So if students copy to or from others, then they will earn an “F,” or be penalized with a lower grade for this.

Grading Rubric:	Exceeds Expectations (90-100%)	Meets Expectations (80-89%)	Approaches Expectations (70-79%)	Meets a few expectations (60-69%)	Does Not Meet Expectations (Below 60%)
