PVAMU HEALTHY HOUSTON INITIATIVE TO UNVEIL MOBILE KITCHEN

The mobile kitchen unit will be used to teach healthy eating habits in underserved communities.

HOUSTON (August 10, 2021) – The Prairie View A&M University (PVAMU) Healthy Houston Initiative will host a mobile kitchen unit launch to unveil its newest tool in nutrition education. The mobile kitchen will be used for onsite demonstrations to teach healthy recipes to residents in underserved communities.

PVAMU President Ruth J. Simmons will join faculty, staff, and community partners to officially debut the mobile kitchen. Additionally, participants will receive an update on the accomplishments of the initiative, which launched in October 2020.

The PVAMU Healthy Houston Initiative is a joint effort to address health disparities and promote a holistic wellness approach to healthy lifestyles for the Greater Houston area residents. Utilizing a grant from The Texas A&M University System and in partnership with the City of Houston, the initiative serves to impact four sectors of the community: finance, food security, public health, and mental health and wellness.
