PVAMU READIES TO HOST ITS SECOND TEDx TALK

This year’s speakers bring unique perspectives, from their journeys to becoming creative entrepreneurs, researchers, activists and political strategists.

PRAIRIE VIEW, Texas (March 3, 2022) – Prairie View A&M University is thrilled to make its second appearance on the global TEDx platform with the theme “Becoming an Outlier.”

This year’s program on Saturday, March 5, features four speakers, including Northwestern University Researcher Chayse Lavallais, Ivy Walls, founder of Ivy Leaf Farms in Houston, Data Scientist Jared Bryson, as well as current PVAMU student Maia McFarlin.

“Outlier’ provides evidence that hard work and opportunity in almost all cases are more important than intelligence, and this is what we will permeate through our audience at TEDxPVAMU,” said organizer and PVAMU student Kendall Lemons. “This event hopes to push forward the idea of standing out, seizing opportunity, and moving with purpose through our speakers' stories.”

TEDxPVAMU is a closed event but will be available to view on PVAMU’s official Youtube channel on April 5, 2022.
